Mello moves to have State take over control of local water

By Elizabeth Cowley

Developers, environmentalists, realtors and private citizens united in opposition to SB 1951 at a public hearing held on March 22 at the Monterey City Council Chambers. SB 1951 was proposed by California State Senator Mello (D-Watsonville) and would replace the current Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD) elected board with a board comprised of 8 appointed members; six city mayors within the district and 2 members from the Board of Supervisors.

Mello said he introduced the legislation because of constituent complaints that the MPWMD has spent $36 million dollars over 17 years and has not developed "a drop of new water."

SB 1951 will not change the MPWMD staff, budget, or scope of responsibility, only the makeup of the board. Mello was repeatedly asked what problem an appointed board could solve that the current elected board could not. David Dillworth offered an answer when he pointed out that state law prohibits an election on a dam in a district with an appointed water board adding, "Gee, you did not intend that did you?"

Of the 25 people who addressed Senator Mello, not one supported SB 1951 as currently written. Opponents included Lynn Levin representing the League of Women Voters, Bill Hurst, former manager of the County Water Resources Agency, Zan Henson, 5th District Supervisorial candidate and Mike McNally representing the Pacific Grove construction industry.

CV Garden Show will blossom

The Carmel Valley Garden Association, your local home grown group of gardeners and their friends, is very pleased to announce that their annual flower show and plant sale will take place on Sunday, April 28, 1996 at Hidden Valley Music Seminars. Saturday, April 27, will be the day for all entries to be brought to the show and arranged.

This show has become a long time spring tradition here in Carmel Valley and gives everyone with even the smallest of backyard gardens the opportunity to share a love of plants and flowers with friends and neighbors.

The Carmel Valley Garden Association extends an invitation to all in the Valley to enter a treasure or a surprise from their own gardens; non-members are encouraged to enter and to share their knowledge and experience with other Valley green-thumbers.

This show is a way to learn more about the mysteries of gardening.

This year's show will feature numerous categories of entries, including cut flowers, potted plants, bonsai, flower arranging, special categories for children, an amateur's competition and most original of show award. Last year's most original of show was won by a gentleman who sculpted an entire month's worth of lawn clippings into the shape of a large moose. Complete information, including entry forms and rules of the show will soon be available at local nurseries.

The Garden Association is a group of approximately 100 Valley men and women who meet monthly with the purpose of involving themselves and others in the pursuit of gardening through the sharing of knowledge and ideas, and with an eye towards education, conservation and the beautification of Carmel Valley.

For more information, contact Sally Fargo at 659-5329 or Cle Allison at 626-4268.

MPWMD meeting

By Elizabeth Cowley

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD) Board of Directors held its regular monthly meeting on March 18 at the Monterey City Council Chambers.

The MPWMD voted to hold on to the New Los Padres Dam (NLPD) permits. The district estimates it spent over $12 million to obtain the NLPD permits however, the voters rejected the NLPD in November. Cal-Am has expressed interest in obtaining the permits and the MPWMD has indicated that it might sell them.

If Cal-Am, or another private entity, were to obtain the permits a public vote would not be required. Many taxpayers within the district have voiced concern that NLPD permits, paid for by the public, may be sold to a private company for profit without voter approval. Another concern, repeatedly expressed to the Board in the past few months, is that the voters rejected the NLPD and that there should be no further discussion about a dam on the Carmel River.

The MPWMD voted in favor of granting Macomber Estates 10 Acre Feet (AF) for 20 residential lots in Pebble Beach. As a financial sponsor, Macomber Estates was assured 10 AF of the Pebble Beach water reclamation plant water by the MPWMD in 1989. Myron Etienne, council for Macomber Estates, urged the MPWMD to honor its contract adding that this is not public water but "water this man paid $1 million for."

The issue was not whether Macomber was entitled to 10 AF but rather how many residential lots 10 AF could serve and how that calculation should be made. In the

A PLACE IN THE SUN

The first anniversary of last year's floods has passed. The rains this year caused some Carmel Valley River area residents a few sleepless nights. Sounds of rushing water that left mountains of brown mud coating every corner flash through the mind.

Memories of danger and loss remain vivid. Recovery is still going on.

The Carmel Valley Flood Relief Fund aided that recovery by making four grant awards during the year totaling $54,121. A majority of these funds came from your efforts and caring.

The grant events included: grants to individuals and families to replace some of their lost possessions, money for workers and equipment to clean up after the second flooding, plants and gift certificates for reconstruction, and holiday food and toys for survivor families.

Among the many special people who continued to support survivors throughout were: Dorothy McEwen and her Holman Ranch staff, Allan Marcus, Stew and Sandy Clough. These are only some of the people who exemplify the spirit of this valley.

Others are involved in supporting the Carmel Valley Branch Library. The Friends of the Library are holding a book sale in conjunction with the More acknowledgments are due those who contributed to the 2nd Annual Night at the "Old Buckeye" library fundraiser: Norman Spalding for contributing promotional support, Peter Meckle for usage of the Hidden Valley sign, Mark, Beverly and Charlotte Parker for posing as character's from Carroll's "Alice in the Looking Glass".

The rains that came this year fortunately only produced a bumper crop of yellow blooming plants that are giving my nose a fit, but for survivors it will alway be a different story. A story of courage and of the many Valley residents who continue to contribute to the welfare of their neighbors and friends.

Friends of Monterey County Wildlife's "GrrrUMMAGE" Sale to be held Saturday, June 1 from 9 AM to 3 PM at the Trail and Saddle Club. The proceeds will jointly benefit the library and the SPCA Wildlife Center.

Donations of books and all other articles, excluding clothing, can be made by calling Susan Pius, 659-2049 or Anne Mills, 659-3745 to arrange pick-up. You can also leave book donations at the library. So clean out your library and closets and then attend the sale to fill them back up with "new to you" books and other items.

TOUCHING BASES

Peter Lyon

One of the continuing themes of this column is that some of the best baseball in Carmel Valley Little League can be enjoyed at the minor league level, Double A, Single A, and of course, the sparkling energy and exuberance of t-ball. With that notion in mind, we bring you with great pride, a roster of the Single A teams and their managers. This year, when you come to those Single A contests to watch the youngsters come up against Mr. Machine, you'll find Broncos, Cubs, Hornets, Pirates, Toros, and a fearsome Wolfpack. (Perhaps in a less competitive and more loving world, we shall give our sports teams gentler and more loving names.)

Managing to ride the Broncos to victories this year will be Brad Tucker, and his remuda includes Zachory Alaga, Adam Armstrong, Stephanie Birdsong, Bobby Brower, Amanda Burghall, Brian Clark, Alec Dombrowski, Zachery Effron, Fabian Osornio, Alejandro Osornio, Kyle Posada, Chris Prochaska, Mark Saxton, and Cache Tucker.

Hard on their heels come tumbling the ever-explosive Cubs, ably managed by John Bevier. He'll be tracking James Becker, Jackson Bevier, Chris Brown, Timothy Buich, Christopher Ciero, Matt Dini, Dylan Fitzpatrick, Anthony Gerbino, Ashley Harris, Adriana James, Todd Langland, Guy Maggini, Michael Schmidt, and John Turner.

Of course, if you'd like a real buzz at the Single A level, come watch the Hornets put the sting to their opponents. Helping give wing to the gang this year will be none other than a member of The Dynasty, Neil Vandervort, and he is the keeper of Ryan James Auburn, Lee Barkalow, Jonathan Berger, Ben Britton, Chris Hawley, Emilie Lygren, Justin Lyons, Alexandra Manhard, Trevor Principe, Dillon Saunders, C. J. Stine, Hatton Vandervort and Craig Vandervort.

(Will there come a day when the entire roster of CVLL can be summed up in one family name? We could do worse, considering the quality.)

From under his black patch Mo Moulaison will keep a weather eye on the Pirates. Attempting to repel all boarders this year will be Arieh Abend, Justin Cate, Steven Dawson, Jim Dunn, Todd Harney, Cody Kenyon, Robert Porter, Brittany Kovach, William Scrivani, Dylan Swift, Max Von Beltz, Grant R. Vousden-Dishington, and James Warren.

Forget Pamplona; we have toros right here in sunny C.V. Running our locals down in the corrida this time around is John Catherwood, masterfully herding Jamie Agostini, Ty Burks, Drew Carlson, Michael Catherwood, Sam Chaple, Bert Ferrasci, Robert Jespersen, Dylan McMahon, Kyle Murchison, Courtney Passey, Will Reese, Sam Smith, Austin Snyder and Angelica Villareal.

Finally, if you really want to get your teeth into some fine Single A ball, come watch the Wolfpack howl their way through the season. Dancing with this great group this year will be manager Steve Heron and coach Kevin Sullivan, and hoping to put the bite on the rest of the league will be Willie Adams, Kevin Call, Kerry Crane, Adrian Dermicek, Benjamin Dew, Bryon Gardiner, Billy Heron, Adam Knapp, Forest Kovach, Katie Monroe, Brett Michael Raukin, Chris Scardina, Russell Sterten, and Arren Wolff-Smith, perhaps a bit of type-casting.

To all of you in Single A, who will be wearing the colors of a major league team before your parents can catch a breath, we wish the very best of luck and the most abundant of joyous days on the fields of the Carmel Valley Little League Park.

Of course, we cannot have baseball at the park without a schedule to go by, so herewith some important dates: First major league game: Lions v. Indians, will have already taken place by the time we go to press. We'll try to let you know who threw the first pitch at the first batter, who got the first hit, and who ate the first official hamburger. The first Double A game will have been the Eagles v. the Cougars. Again, we'll do our best to remind you of the great moments.

As to the Official Opening Day, which as we all know, never takes place on the day of the first game, be prepared on April 13 to spend a lovely mid-day at our own CVLL Baseball Park. We invariably offer color, drama, lessons in public speaking, loose dogs, lost children, interesting scientific experiments in the snack bar, and the expectant hush which falls on the crowd when the Honorary Person throws the first pitch. That's what the wire screen on the backstop is for.

Bring a smile to the ballpark for Picture Days. March 30 for all levels of Little League and April 27 for t-ball and softball. Watch the bulletins for further details.

And speaking of t-ball, John Bevier reports that he has about 100 players signed up. Do not miss the joys of watching a t-ball game; if you have ever tried to figure out cricket, it's a piece of cake compared to t-ball, a game where the players often seem to obey nothing so much as the incomprehensible laws of quantum physics.

Tip o' the baseball cap department to Shery Hattori, our new CVLL Treasurer; to Gary Pennington for the briefest report at the last board meeting; to Pam Priano and all the major league team members who

by Judith Leavelle

The Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club Equine Educational Alliance held a Combined Driving Event the weekend of March 18 and 19. It was the first time that a Combined Driving Event was ever held at the club.

Drivers came from all over California to take part in this two day event. There were many different breeds of horses entered in this event. There were Quarter horses, Friesians, Morgans, Appaloosas, Pony of the Americas, Welsh Ponies, Lippizzans and several interesting cross-breeds.

Judi Leavell, an experienced single and pair driver, managed the show, which was a mammoth task. She was aided by a number of local volunteers and an equal number of non-local driving buffs from throughout the state.

A Combined Driving Event is divided into three sections: Dressage and Presentation, Obstacles, and the Marathon. Each one of these sections tests the versatility and the training of the horse and driver combinations in a different way.

The driven Dressage section requires a steady and accurate test of geometric patterns to be driven from memory.

The obstacle section was challenging for the drivers, they were required to memorize a course of numbered gates. Those gates were large safety cones topped with tennis balls. The drivers received penalties if they went too slow, went off course, or if they disturbed the cones or the marker balls in any way.

Both the Dressage and the Obstacle sections were held on the CV T & S Club grounds on Saturday.

The marathon was held on Sunday and was divided into three sections. The first section circled the Club grounds. The second section went along Garzas Road, Via Poco, Via Las Encinas and Paso del Rio. The Final section went through the newly acquired Condon property which was opened up just for that morning's event by the Garland Park staff.

Many of the timed check points along the marathon were run by neighborhood volunteers as well as Tularcitos staff members. Bea di Grazia, Carmel Valley's own Advanced Combined Event rider, volunteered to judge the Dressage section. Barbara Kroboth, of Argonaut Farms near Clear Lake, volunteered to judge the Obstacle section and be the Technical Delegate. Nancy Bletzer of D'Archangel Ranch near Tres Pinos (formerly a Carmel Valley resident) volunteered to judge the Presentation section.

Our local drivers were Rick Marshall driving Bently in the Novice level, Frank Tousignant driving Classic Impression at Training level and Sunday Collins driving Otto and Jessica as a pair in Novice level.

The entire event staff, the competitors, the volunteers and the caterers had to wait until the last possible minute to find out whether the event would proceed or have to be cancelled because of rain. Miraculously, the wet weather held off for the weekend, the sun came out and a great time was had by everybody.

Are They Really That Naive?

Jess Helms and Bill Clinton must both be very naive fellows.

Suppose a handful of mainland Chinese were flying their small private airplanes over Chinese-American communities dropping leaflets encouraging insurrection or possibly delivering arms. How would we expect our Air Force to respond?

Communism did not die and whither away with the fall of the old USSR. China, Cuba and a dozen or so other nations still hold their Marxist/Maoist political regimes.

Communist Cuba, just off our nation's southern shores, has been a thorn in the side of our anti-Communist nation since Castro's rise to power in 1959.

Taiwan, the island retreat for capitalist Chiang Kai Shek, has been a greater thorn in the side of Communist China. Since 1949, the flag of capitalism has waved over this island just off China's shores, which the mainland Chinese Com-munists, justly or unjustly, still regard as part of greater China.

Would it not be safe to assume that there is political and economic linkage between the numerous disparate Communist nations in the world. It would be equally safe to assume that following the demise of Communist USSR, that China is now the world's leading Communist nation. And, whether we like it or not, over half of the world's population lives in Communist controlled nations.

Naivete? When the Cuban Air Force shot down a pair of American planes from an organization dedicated to violating Cuban air and marine space, with the intent to destabilize the Communist Cuban regime, America's Clinton and Helms called for deliberate retaliation in the form of economic sanctions, which ironically will set back America's opportunity to enter the Cuban economic market.

Naivete? So then, a week later China begins war games in the waters off the island of Taiwan and Helms and Clinton want to act surprised and outraged moving two Naval carrier groups into harm's way to protect Taiwan, with whom we have no defensive treaty.

Have the guys in the Clinton State Department and Helm's Armed Services Committee missed the obvious linkage? Though far apart, it is highly improbable that there is no linkage between the events currently surrounding Cuba and Taiwan.

If the thesis of this essay is correct and there is linkage between these events, then it was incredibly naive of our government to allow and be complicent in the ongoing marine and air intrusions of private Cuban-American citizens into the sovereign territory of Cuba. It was naive to assume that there would not be serious repercussions from Communist China.

Ironically, Helms would love to oust Castro's Communist government from Cuba by application of U.S. military force, and would be happy to see America engaged in war to protect Taiwan; while Clinton would probably prefer the Nixon/Reagan posture of slow, peaceful economic, social and political invasion.

Clinton miscalculated. He should have sanctioned and halted the belligerent actions of the Cuban-American Brothers when the Cubans began over two years ago issuing clear public and diplomatic demands that these renegade Cuban-Americans cease violating borders.

America's economic sanctions in response to the downing of the two planes was restrained...there was no retaliatory military strike...nor is Cuba able to strike at our America. But, naivete opened the door for China to intimidate Taiwan.

Then perhaps it was not naivete, rather the confluence of the virulent anti-Communist old Helms and the young, perpetually vacillating Clinton. Yet the combination of their actions makes America appear naive and in a defensive position.

WHAT'S NEXT? Mel Vercoe

Good news for a change. All of my doomsday predictions are going out the window. The guy in charge of intelligence in the Pentagon says Bosnia is doomed, without massive foreign aid after NATO leaves. "Foreign aid" means U.S. aid, which means we have a choice. We can adopt Bosnia as a state, or we can bring all of the Bosnians to America. Supplying them with homes and furniture, etc. will boost our economy.

Also encouraging, our House just voted 369 to 14 to defend Taiwan, if it is attacked by China, and China can hardly pass up a dare like that. That leaves 52 congressmen who couldn't decide which way to vote. If Sam Farr wasn't among the 14 who had sense enough to try to keep us out of a stupid shooting war with China, then he has lost my support forever.

There must be at least 300,000 people in the U.S., who would be almost certainly safer to have in the White House than any of the candidates we've seen to date, but they don't, for whatever reasons, want to get their feet wet. Prominent, very knowledgeable news media people, for example, with national name recognition. Are their salaries higher than the White House salary? Surely, they, of all people, are fully aware of the scarcity of worthwhile applicants, and of the danger to our country.

Certainly, it's a messy process for applicants trying to placate every anti-communist paranoid, and every school prayer and anti-abortion extremist, but there are many millions of us who are desperately hoping to see a candidate, whose primary concern is getting America out of the problems that have accrued around it, a candidate without either World Emperor ambitions, or on a Holy Crusade to wipe out communism throughout the whole planet.

About Hatton Canyon...

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

In your recent editorial you seem to object to the highway through the Hatton Canyon. The article speaks of it, "...paralleling Highway 1 through Carmel".

Actually, Highway 1 is through the Hatton Canyon as that is the adopted route, and has been for many years. It is so shown on tract maps of the area.

Also, it does not go through Carmel. It by-passes Carmel. That is its purpose and usefulness.

The present temporary route is a residential street. In the short stretch between Ocean Avenue down to the Carmel Valley Road, there are 11 residential driveways and 4 intersecting streets. There is no way that this can be developed to accomodate the tens of thousands of vehicles that traverse it every day.

The present proposals to build a third lane, destroy the trees, and construct ugly concrete sound barriers and retaining walls would seem to be contrary to all of the rest of the points you made in your editorial.

Thank you for your interest in the project.

Keep The Kids Sober

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Graduation time is cherished tradition for both the graduates and their families. It is that moment when memories reach their peak, and dreams are about to become reality. It should be a night of care-free fun, safe from tragedy, and where future hopes are protected from accidents.

Thanks to the efforts of Sober Grad Night last year, on a county wide basis, not one, not one, graduating senior was involved in an accident. Literally, our graduates were kept off the highways because they had something special, fun and spectacular to do. Our plans are again to make this event so inviting that not one senior will dream of missing this year's event.

The committees have now formed, and plans for June are well under way, but your help is needed. If each senior family would contribute $40, as was requested of families in the past three years, our expenses, with community support, will be met. Sober Grad Night is funded entirely from the sale of tickets, support from the community, and you. Send donations to: Sober Grad Night, Carmel High School, P.O. Box 22518, Carmel, Ca. 93922.

TAMC Says Roads Cannot Handle 65 mph

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Can California's aging highway system safely accommodate higher speed limits recently approved? Statewide, speeds will be raised to 65 miles per hour (mph) on 2800 miles of freeway. An additional 1400 miles of freeway are candidates for 70 mph speed while 1500 miles statewide will remain at 55 mph. The increase was prompted, in part, by passage of federal legislation signed late last year by President Clinton that ended the 55 mph speed limit across the country.

In 1973, when the 55 mph speed limit was imposed, California had the world's finest freeway system. Today, California ranks 46th in the United States per capita transportation spending. As a result, we have a freeway system increasingly characterized by potholes, congestion, and growing safety problems.

The State Department of Transportation (CalTrans) data indicate that motorists will be driving at increased 1996 speeds, on what are basically deteriorating 1973 highways. The growth in freeway capacity has not kept pace with the incredible demand for highway travel. Some examples:

* In 1973 there were 45,160 lane miles of state highways. Twenty years later the number of lane miles increased only by 7.7 percent to 49,138 miles.

* Between 1973 and 1993, the number of miles traveled by cars and trucks on state highways has increased by 103 percent, from 70.1 billion miles to 142.3 billion miles.

* California's population increased by 52 percent to 31 million persons between 1973 and 1993.

* The number of registered motor vehicles increased 63.1 percent to 23.4 million and the number of licensed drivers increased 58 percent to 20.2 million.

California's highways are suffering from a severe decline in estimated gas tax revenues. As cars become more energy efficient, the per gallon gas tax generates less funds for transportation. In addition, gas taxes have not kept up with inflation. In 1967, Californians were paying 7 cents per gallon in fuel taxes. Today's 18 cents per gallon is equivalent to 4 cents in 1967 dollars. This results in funding shortages for construction and maintenance programs. The California Transportation Commission has decided they can not add any new highway projects until the year 2003 because of the $4.5 billion shortage in funds for previously planned and approved transportation projects.

Safe speed and convenience on our highway system are disappearing. Increasing 1996 highway speeds based on 1973 and capacity assumptions could spell disaster for California motorists.

Rancho San Carlos Says They Are Within Rights

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

The owners, planning team, employees and volunteers of Rancho San Carlos would like to thank the community for listening over the past three weeks to both sides of the referendum debate to overturn the recently unanimously approved Santa Lucia Preserve.

The petition gatherers had set a goal of obtaining 12,000 signatures. They need at least that many to cover the typical margin of error for people signing who are not registered voters in Monterey County, or signatures which are invalid due to other discrepancies.

It appears that petition gatherers did not meet this goal - and we who truly believe in the Santa Lucia Preserve at Rancho San Carlos feel gratified, regardless of the final outcome of the signature tabulation. We did our very best to make sure the integrity of this project was not undermined by blatant distortion of facts and misinformation - and felt it was our responsibility to provide the accurate picture of a project that we have worked on and have believed in for the past six years of our lives.

In addition to misrepresentation of facts, we also witnessed and were made aware of numerous inconsistencies in the process that we feel constitute election law irregularities. We have filed a significant number of declarations with the Registrar documenting these violations of the election code. Ultimately, they will be turned over to the District Attorney's office for investigation. These and other issues may impact the outcome of this referendum drive.

Because of these violations and falsehoods, our off-duty employees and many volunteers have been out on the streets, offering information to the public alongside the petition gatherers. If the presence of our employees and volunteers at petition gathering sights somehow offended members of the community, we hope they will attempt to understand the emotional aspect of this debate and the intensity of feeling that inspired each individual, on both sides, to offer hours and days of personal time to communicate with the public in the first place.

We and our supporters strongly believe that the reason the Santa Lucia Preserve was approved after six years of study was because we followed all the strict policies and procedures of this County, and because of the integrity of what has been proposed in preserving 18,000 of 20,000 acres - or 29 square miles of open space. Only a limited amount of development will ever be allowed on the remaining 10 percent of this vast property, which is the size of the entire Carmel Valley - 300 homesites, 50 employee homes, 150 units of lodging, a golf trail and a small area of neighborhood stores.

We followed the rules. We went far beyond what was required of us. We worked shoulder to shoulder with hundreds of residents of this County to address their concerns. And we are privately funding 90% of our land in openspace in perpetuity. As a safeguard, the nationally respected Trust for Public Land will supervise the integrity of the longevity of the Santa Lucia Preserve to guarantee that the community will benefit from this open space, whether or not we are successful over the long-run as developers.

The hiking access and public programs we have offered over the past six years will not only continue, but have been expanded. We invite the community, regardless of your feelings about the referendum on the Santa Lucia Preserve, to come up to the ranch and see for yourselves that the Preserve is real...and what it really

VALLEY FINANCE

Douglas Pease

Researching a stock to buy is like checking out your daughter's fiance: does he make money, does he have a plan for the future, what are his prospects and does he associate with good people? Of course, if your daughter is in love, she'll marry him anyway. Some people buy stocks because they are in love with them, but for those who are willing to spend time researching the company there is a lot of information available. If you have access to the Internet it is amazing what you can find out in a morning's time. I'll use a particular stock to illustrate the process; the stock may or may not interest you, but the search certainly will.

Last month I upgraded my computer, doubling its speed and memory for one-tenth of its original cost two years ago. I think this is a trend. LSI LOGIC is working on the ultimate upgrade: computer-in-a-chip. That caught my attention, and I went on to determine the stock is within my personal price horizon of $30 or less a share and PE horizon of 20 or less. The newspaper reports positive earnings per share (eps), a history of sales growth, and average-or-better trading appeal in recent markets. Then I logged onto the Internet for the following events.

-Checked LSI LOGIC'S webpage at http://www.lsilogic.com, which confirms the company's goal is to produce the ultimate computer-in-a-chip.

-Checked LSI LOGIC'S last 10-Q quarterly report filed with the SEC, at http://sec.gov./edgarhp.html, which describes how the company doubled net revenues 1994 to 1995, the subsidiaries it acquired since it was restructured in 1992, the company's plans for its new $800 million production facility, the extent of its global operations, that it has very little

COMPUTER TALK

Val Healey

Part 3 - An introduction to computers at a naively simple level.

In the last part we briefly reviewed the components of a computer: the cpu, its major components and the principal peripherals.

We will now delve a little deeper into the motherboard and its components. It comes in several different physical sizes and also in several types and the name the type carries to the computer type. The earlier pcs were an XT class and later these were supplanted by the AT class, which is the one we are discussing here. The earlier motherboards/pcs were of the isa (international standard architecture) type and there are still millions of them around. They are now rather dated and have many limitations. IBM broke away with its own mca (micro-computer architecture), while other companies developed extended isa, called eisa. More recently came others such as vlb (vesa local bus), pci (peripheral component interconnect) and pcmcia (personal computer member card international association), the latter being for the small very portable Notebook computers. These types related to the memory management, memory addressing and to the bus - the highway within the computer on which the information travels. There is no need to memorize all this information at this time; keep it for future reference. Remembering what the acronyms represent is not important; in fact many computer professionals have long since forgotten. For the non-portable computers, and for most people, the mca and pci types are the most popular ones today.

Information storage in a computer is of two basic types: temporary or volatile, and permanent hard drive, floppy diskettes and cd-roms are examples of permanent storage. The memory of a computer is an example of volatile storage and whatever is written there is lost every time the computer is switched off or the power fails. Every computer needs an os (operating system) which is a collection of sets of instructions (programs) that enables one to control almost everything the computer does. Examples of os are: dos (disk operating system), os/2, Windows 95, Linux...The os is written to the hd (hard drive) when it is "set-up" or loaded into the system. In order for the computer to be able to do anything significant some programs must be brought into the memory but, just after the computer is switched on, there is nothing there. This problem is solved by using a special chip called the cmos (complementary metal oxide semiconductor). A very small battery, coupled to this chip on the motherboard, keeps it under power at all times and written there is a simple but, with the passage of time, an increasingly sophisticated instruction set. It is called the bios (basic input output system), or sometimes rom (read only memory) - bios, and its primary task is to load the os into memory to start the ball rolling.

debt relative to current assets, that funds have been set aside for its pending lawsuit settlement with Texas Instruments, that it is committed to budgeting 9%-11% of revenues for R &D...25 printed pages of information, single space.

-Checked an online quote service at http://www.dbc.com/quote.html for today's trading range for "LSI".

-Checked Barron's online market summary at http://www.enews.com/magazines/barrons/current/trader.html to learn that the technology sector is losing favor with investors. One can infer this might be a good time to buy technology company stocks at lower prices, and sure enough, the March 5 article from the Wall Street Journal search announced LSI LOGIC'S intent to buy back up to $4 million of its own stock from now on.

-Checked Usenet's "misc.invest" to see if any of the Wall Street elves bought LSI LOGIC for their current portfolio (one did).

I won't say this is enough information to bless a marriage or buy a stock, but it is readily accessible and it is free to anyone who searches. You don't have an Internet connect? Yes, you do, just call the library and make an appointment.

ADJUST DURING A MATCH
During a match, notice if there is a pattern to your errors and make adjustments. For instance, if you are hitting the ball into the net, you may need to bend your knees to lift the ball higher.

If you are hitting the ball long during a match, adjust by making sure you're following through completely; this generates topspin, which keeps the ball in the court.

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Isn't it amazing that when the tourists are almost all gone, it's raining and flooding on a Monday night and restaurants are begging for customers, that a certain restaurant would not allow us to make reservations for a group of 28? Why?

Our group wasn't a "party" it was the family of a long time respected business owner in Carmel who had just passed away and we wanted to have supper after the Rosary Service at the Carmel Mission.

The restaurant near the Mission, a ranch style place owned by a major movie star, has a back room which seats 30. We chose this restaurant because it had been a favorite of our dad's and our late mother. It was important for our family to sit together. We needed to have the comfort of one another and did not want to be scattered throughout the restaurant as suggested by the management. We were sorely disappointed that we were not accommodated. We felt a lack of appreciation and disrespect toward our parents' faithful patronage and memory.

Luckily, we chose a highly respected restaurant in Carmel Valley which has exceptional food and whose owner is identified by a magnanimous nature. They closed the restaurant at 8 p.m. and catered to our family of 28.

Thank you. We greatly appreciate the geniality and graciousness which helped ease the pain of the passing of our father and friend.

Concerns included the lack of voter representation, the Mayors record of non-cooperation, the fact that SB 1951 does not address spending, and the timing of this bill, just after the defeat of the New Los Padres Dam (NLPD). MPWMD Director Haddad said "Change is in order" but "replacing the current board with an appointed board of mayors and supervisors sends the wrong message to the voters because the voters rejected the dam and all of the new members supported it."

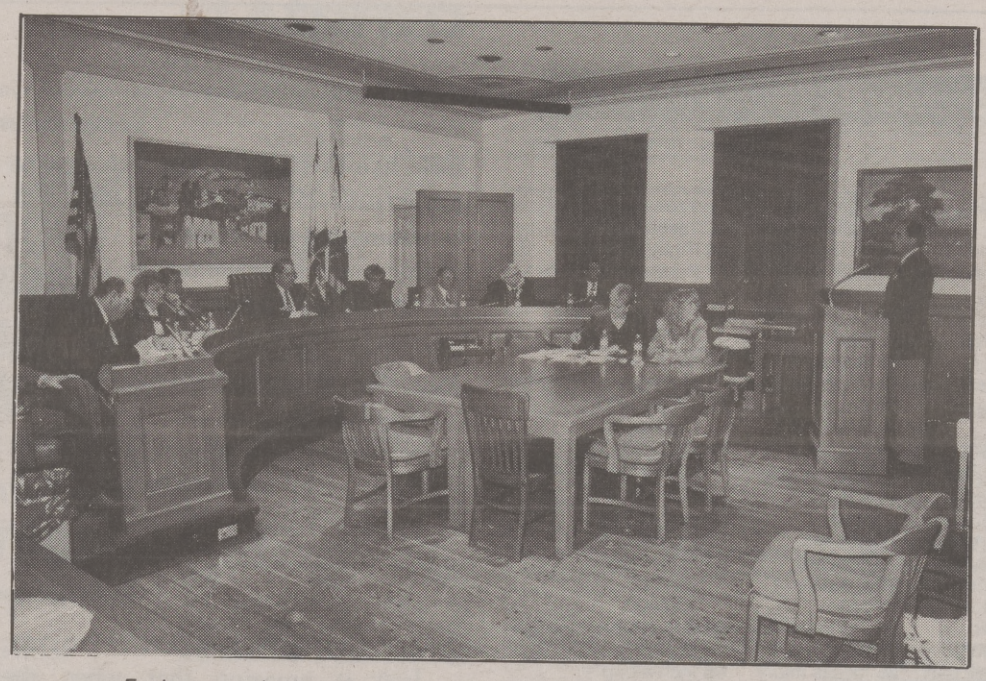
MPWMD Director Hughes said "The MPWMD was formed to get the politics out of water management and now we are going full circle." Adding, "I was voted into office and I do not appreciate being thrown out of office by legislative fiat."

MPWMD Chair Burkleo pointed out that the Mayors and Supervisors will not have the time to devote to water management decisions as they already have a full plate.

The current MPWMD board has one City Mayor appointee and Dick Huer, former MPWMD Director, pointed out that the mayors have fought amongst themselves to avoid that appointment. Huer was also concerned about the lack of weighted voting which would mean that the Sand City Mayor representing a population of 200 would have the same vote as the Mayor of Monterey representing a population of 30,000. Mello responded that the issue of weighted voting had not been resolved because the proposed board was split 4-4. Huer said that a perpetual deadlock was likely with a board comprised of 8 members.

Mello said the voter rejection of the dam had nothing to do with the decision to propose SB 1951. Mello said he had proposed an identical bill prior to the dam election but let it slide until after the vote on the dam at the prompting of the MPWMD. The earlier bill, SB 1136, contained language pertaining to charging for groundwater pumping, not changing the composition of the MPWMD board. When questioned about this discrepancy Mello said SB 1136 was a "holding bill" and while the language did not pertain to the MPWMD board the intent was the same as the current SB 1951.

Mello concluded by thanking everyone for showing up and accounted for the negative comments by saying "The MPWMD was able to get a turnout of those that support its position." Mello's comment was met by boos from the approximately 100 people in attendance.



Environmental advocate attorney Zan Hansen (r) shown at the podium was one of a packed house of citizens who appeared at the Mello hearings on SB 1951 in Monterey last week. The Mello bill will remove local control of the water board and vest all water use power in the hands of the State. photo - Elizabeth Cowley

SB 1951 will be heard by a California Senate Committee on April 10. A decision on SB 1951 must be made by May or June to meet deadlines prior to the August 31 Senate adjournment date.

1989 contract the MPWMD estimated that each home would require .405 AF. The current system employs counting the number of fixtures. Using the fixture method, the first few Macomber homes were estimated to consume .6+ AF. Both numbers represent an estimate, not the actual amount of water used.

Macomber Estates has planned 20 lots and maintained that it was inappropriate to employ the fixture method of estimating water use since, at the time of the contract, the fixture method was not used and the per house estimate was .405 AF. Director Hughes said that he did not argue Macomber's right to 10 AF, but rather how to ensure that the development would not use more than 10 AF and wanted a method of keeping track of actual water use.

Daivd Laredo, MPWMD council, reminded the Board that the decision had to be made through consideration of the legal record and that since the two new board members had not had sufficient time to review the information, a decision was premature. The Board ignored this recommendation and voted 4-2 in favor of Macomber; Director Pendergrass was absent. Directors Ely and Hughes dissenting. No method of tracking the actual amount of water used was determined.

The first reading of Ordinance 83, which provides a process to transfer non Cal-Am water to Cal-Am production, passed 6-0; Director Pendergrass was absent. Specifically, Ordinance 83 will allow non Cal-Am well production on Quail Lodge property to be exchanged for Cal-Am service for the Quail Meadows subdivision which was approved by the county in 1989. The Quail Lodge wells will cut back their production and Cal-Am will be able to pump, and supply to Quail Meadows, an equivalent amount; there will be no increase in overall production from the Carmel River.

The consent calendar was unanimously passed with the exception of an item opposed by Director Haddad which authorized the expenditure of $4,200 to produce 800 copies of the MPWMD annual report. Haddad thought the job could be done "in house" by the MPWMD staff and that only 600 copies were necessary.

Director Haddad asked district staff to follow up on obtaining Fort Ord property which is being made available to government agencies. A move to Fort Ord would reduce rent expenditures.

The next regular MPWMD meeting will be held on April 15 at 7:00 PM at the Monterey City Council Chambers.
